Alternative Boat Show and Community Mural Painting

As part of the Smithsonian Water/Ways Project, the community is invited to participate in an Alternative Boat Show and Community Mural Painting. Display your unique and unusual boats: bring pedal boats, Amphicars, kayaks, canoes or other unique water vessels—large or small. Kids can build and show off their own cardboard boat or raft. At the same time, Artist Kelly Boyle will facilitate a community mural painting celebrating our water resources. Be sure to wear your paint clothes and plan to help paint and then don't forget to experience the Water/Ways exhibit itself, while you are here.

Location: Raven Hill Open Space
(junction of Pearsall Road, Fuller Road and C-48)

Date: Saturday, August 18, 2018

Time: noon to 4pm

Cost: free admission to Boat Show, Mural Painting & Smithsonian exhibit at Raven Hill.

Donations appreciated. $10 per person to visit the Raven Hill museum, animals & outdoor exhibits.

Contact info: call 231.536.3369 or email info@miravenhill.org for more information or to register your alternative boat
