Bird watching

Work on your observation skills. Birdwatching, or birding, is something you can do from your window or in your backyard. You can do it for fun or be a citizen scientist. You can use your eyes or binoculars or listen for bird sounds. You can start a Birding Journal. Besides the name of the bird, keep track of the date, time and weather, if you want. My bluebird friends have their choice of several bluebird houses, but they seem to want to come inside and live with me! They just don't understand the concept of social distancing!
