at Raven Hill Discovery Center

Thursday, June 23, 2022 & Friday, June 24, 2022
10:00 am to 3:00 pm both days

Early enrollment is encouraged, as space is limited.

Luke Buck, watercolor artist, returns to Raven Hill for the 13th year. The focus this year is on "rowboats" in conjunction with the Smithsonian Labor Days: A History of Work exhibit on display through 2022. The workshop will emphasize painting rowboats, noting the interesting variations and styles of boats and the beauty in art that they portray. The class will be studying painting techniques in textures, from the wooden or metal sides of a rowboat to the oars and other features, as well as the unique compositions derived from the placement of rowboats in relationship to the water and shore. For more information or to register, call Cheri at 231-536-3369 or email info@miravenhill.org

The class will be limited to 10 participants. At this time, masks are optional indoors at Raven Hill. Please understand that masks may be required or the workshop may even be cancelled, if the virus surges and state pandemic guidelines require it.

This class is designed for the novice beginner, intermediate, or the more advanced & accomplished watercolor artist. As always, this informal workshop will be a motivational, creative, and inspirational session with enjoyment and camaraderie among friends and fellow artists. Luke Buck, a native "Hoosier", grew up and studied art in Indiana. His nostalgic paintings of Americana landscapes and American wildlife show a love for life, art, and nature. Many "locals" here in northern Michigan appreciate his talents and enjoy collecting his paintings.

"The Old School House"

In 2015, Luke donated his original painting of The Old School House to Raven Hill. This painting is available to the public in a beautiful edition of Giclee Print for $40 each as a fundraiser for the Center. Luke will be available during the workshop to personally sign your print.

Raven Hill Discovery Center is supported in part by the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs and the National Endowment for the Arts through a 2022 Operational Grant Award.

Workshop cost: $280 for 2 days. Bring your own lunch.
